"Pastor Russ" to Leave Emanuel

Emanuel Lutheran Church's part-time pastor Russ Crouthamel announced this week that he will be leaving the congregation March 11 to accept a call in Punxsutawney, Pennsylvania. Russ' wife Sarah is a pastor in Manson. The couple have a baby. In a letter to parishoners, Russ said, "Accepting the call to Punxsutawney will provide both me and Pastor Sarah with more opportunities to navigate the tensions between our calls as pastors and our calls as spouses and parents."

Crouthamel has been a part of the Emanuel family since April 2016. He said, "Those twenty-one months have been full of joy and excitement and blessings for me and my family. I've been honored and privileged to be part of this congregation's life and works. I will miss Emanuel and the people here greatly."

In part because Crouthamel was a part-time minister and still resided in Manson, the congregation chose to rent the church parsonage. Crouthamel was the first part-time pastor employed by Emanuel, which mostly recently enjoyed a full-time minister that lived in the parsonage: Arhiana Shek. Before that, Emanuel hosted several Ministry Interns and their families.

Emanuel is gearing up for a large 150th anniversary celebration June 23-24. The interns, among others, have all been invited back to take part.
