Boys

From Page 13

The little things contributed for the Dogies, and Scottsbluff was able to take the lead (10-0) only 13 minutes into the second half. Nebraska has a money rule for varsity sports which was implemented at that time, resulting in the game being called early. As such, the Dogies then lost any opportunity to get on the board.

Peterson has implemented a different strategy in the Dogies’ game plan this season by bringing the defensive line up the field a little, thereby putting more pressure on the attack. So far, this strategy has paid off with some early wins. However, these two teams were a little faster than what Newcastle has faced so far and Peterson stated that had a good deal to do with the issues his squad had during the contests.

I think, in a lot of ways we play together as a team. We are stepping up (the field), but when you step up and are being aggressive like that, you still have a bad touch, you still have one bad one, or one miscue then you're in trouble, whereas if you're evenly matched and you have a bad touch, you have one bad touch in the last couple of games.”

He is working on fixing the little things as well as timing of when they shoot while on the attack this week as they prepare to face the Bison in this Friday night game, which impacted the schedule as they were to play the Alonso Crusaders on Tuesday and then again on Friday. However, these two teams were a little faster in the midfield contest, which was postponed from its original date, was postponed once again to May 7th, due to snow.

“Buffalos have a pretty good team, and they also have some speed. They have one really big, fast striker and we'll have to bring our own Game to stop him.” Peterson proclaimed. “That is a really good kid in the midfield, holding the ball and distributing. As a team, they are prob- ably not as fast as Torrington, but they have a new that are very fast.”

Kapre

Wondell, who had many strange superstitions, would brush his hair in the doghouse when coming between shots after shaving clearly four times of playing a game. With that license and putting them out, Newcastle’s own Tyler Bartlett, former Lady Dogie head coach, but something in common with Wondell as he would have to brush his teeth before every game. He admitted this often gets him a few washes from people in the restroom.

Michael Voight wore his Turbo’s shorts practice under his pants during every game. As such, his shorts (and hence, the shorts for the whole team) had to be longer to cover up the blue, and that was probably responsible for causing the team of longer backhand shots.

Some of the most dis- appointing games of the season involved games. Bruce Gardner dipped his hockey stick into the toilet before every game. Argentinian soccer player Gonzalo Sanez would put his shoes on with every PK to calm his nerves, and MLB’s Max Scherzer would put on his hands in order to1124

The best of both.

We’ve always had a goal: offer you great content at an affordable price.

Benefits of_cross_

- Access to sports news, editorials, features, and more.
- Exclusive offers and promotions.
- Support for Newcastle Elementary.
- Contribution to the Newcastle Elementary School.
- Exclusive offers and promotions.

What I find interesting each season is the fact that I have to talk myself OUT of superstitions multiple times. I find myself carrying on an internal debate about the validity of my superstitions. How can a particular pair of socks really affect the outcome of a game? Did I really win because the team tasted a cherry-flavored energy drink right before the game? Was that the key to convincing myself of a super- stition? It is clear that I am not alone in my struggles with superstition. Perhaps one of the reasons is that we are superstitious by nature, firmly believing that a lucky pair of socks or underwear have an impact on their performance. And superstitions, even if they are not rational reasons for the loss.

Boys

The Dogies will be working on fixing the little things as well as timing of when they shoot while on the attack this week as they prepare to face the Bison in this Friday night game, which impacted the schedule as they were to play the Alonso Crusaders on Tuesday and then again on Friday. However, these two teams were a little faster in the midfield contest, which was postponed from its original date, was postponed once again to May 7th, due to snow.

“Buffalos have a pretty good team, and they also have some speed. They have one really big, fast striker and we’ll have to bring our own Game to stop him.” Peterson proclaimed. “That is a really good kid in the midfield, holding the ball and distributing. As a team, they are prob- abably not as fast as Torrington, but they have a new that are very fast.”

The best of both.

We’ve always had a goal: offer you great content at an affordable price.

Benefits of_cross_

- Access to sports news, editorials, features, and more.
- Exclusive offers and promotions.
- Support for Newcastle Elementary.
- Contribution to the Newcastle Elementary School.
- Exclusive offers and promotions.